

events.

thought leadership.

African conglomerate

Our client is a leading African conglomerate. Having encountered difficulties with defamatory internet content the group wanted to rebuild its brand and that of its leading executives. We secured a major keynote speaking opportunity at the University of Cambridge which is already attracting coverage in reputable blogs and attracted significant favourable comment and coverage in the FT.

client: Private business service: Reputation management